OFFICER'S CORNER

October is here! It's time to think of the upcoming events.

The Post will be having a visit from our National Commander. I would like us to show him that our Post is a place that is the true spirit of AMVETS! He will be in the area Oct. 4-11th.

We have a lot of things coming up in the next few months. I want to remind everybody that in November and December, the Post meetings are on the 2nd Thursday—due to the holidays.

Our D.E.C. meeting will be here Oct 14th and 15th this month. For those of you that would like to attend and see what the Department of Washington is doing—here is your chance.

I want to thank all of you for your support of the Post. As I have said before, if you have any ideas or questions, please let me know. I'm not hard to find.

Again, have a safe month and don't let the Ghosts and Goblins get you.

Our next Post meeting is on Thur. Oct. 27th at 6PM.

Today's Story in Pennsylvania History

By Frederic A. Godcharles

FIRST TRIP OF THE LIBERTY BELL WAS MADE TO SAVE IT FROM THE BRITISH, ARRIVED IN BETHLEHEM SEPT. 21, 1777.

No relic in all America is more revered than the Liberty Bell, and its prophetic inscription; its appeal to the people to assemble for the redress of their grievances; its defiant clangor on that memorable day of the reclamation of our independence; its joyous pealing in exultation over the completed work of the American evolution; and its last tolling over the honored dead of the nation, gives its story an abding interest to the nation and the world.

That Moving Bell

Since the bell was hung in the old State House, Jun 3, 1753, it has been taken from its home on ten different occasions to appear as an object of veneration at great exposition. But of all these journeys none was of such moment and historic interest as its very first pilgrimage in America, when it was hauled miles on a farmer's wagon and hidden beneath the floor of a church to prevent its capture by the British.

No defeat of the Continental army has been so disastrous as that of the battle of Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777, when one thousand patriots fell, and General Howe was able to move on toward Philadelphia, causing the greatest consternation.

The congress, in session there, hastily adjourned on September 18, to meet in Lancaster, where it held a session September 27, and then moved to York where it first met on the 30th and continued its sessions there until June 27, 1778.

Off to Lehigh!

Everyone was astir in Philadelphia, and an immediate movement of the army, including the sick and wounded, was begun to Bethlehem. The State House, or Liberty Bell, and the other bells of the city were taken down. Many of the church bells were sunk in the river or carried away, but the Liberty Bell, with those of Christ church, St. Peter's and eight others, eleven in all were removed to Allentown via Bethlehem.

To the victor belongs the spoils and history furnishes many instances where the bells of captured cities have been melted down and recast as cannon, or run into bullets.

On the morning of Sept. 19, 1777, according to the diary of Jacob Hilzheimer, an official of the quartermasters department. the public money, books and papers were sent to the home of Abraham Hunt, in New Jersey for temporary safe keeping. The order to remove the bells must have been promulgated the same day, as the diary of the Moravian bishop at Bethlehem notes on Monday, September 22, that the archives and papers of congress arrived from Trenton via Easton, under a convoy of fifty troopers and fifty infantrymen.

On the following day the heavy baggage of the Continental Congress and the army began arriving at Bethlehem in a continuous train of 700 wagons, and went into camp. The Liberty Bell was abroad one of these wagons. At the tie of its disappearance from Philadelphia, rumor was rife and it filled a watery grave in the Delaware river. The fact is that as soon as the Supreme Executive Council had ordered this and other bells to be removed to Allentown, they were loaded on farm wagons and piled high with manure, a piece of strategy to foil the enemy. The wagon upon which the Liberty Bell was thus concealed was driven by John Jacob Mickley, who had charge of removing all the bells. He was accompanied by his son, a lad of eleven years who occasionally was allowed to drive.

The entire operation of removing the bells from their towers, loading them in wagons and driving them to a place of safety, was accomplished under cover of darkness. This accounts for the time consumed in driving from Philadelphia to Allentown. The wagon with the Liberty Bell broke down in Bethlehem, when it was transferred to a wagon owned and driven by Frederick Leaser, and on September 24, followed the others to Allentown.

Hibernated For Year

The Liberty Bell and the chimes of Christ church were secreted beneath the floor of Zion Reformed church, where they remained for about one year. A bronze tablet, properly inscribed, has been placed on this historic church, which tells of this first trip of the famous Liberty Bell. The "Liberty Bell" visited Allentown, November 3, 1893, on its return from the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, and was allowed to remain over night in remembrance of its sojourn there, as commonly supposed, during the darkest days of the Revolution.
